INDEX

TO THE

SEVENTEENTH VOLUME

OF THE

Weekly Entertainer.

A.

ABSENCE of mind, by the Marquis d'Argenſon, 139.
Anagrams, 140, 316, 589. Anſwers to, 436, 588.
Anecdote of Mr. Wortley Montague, 26. remarkable one of the father-in-law of the preſent Earl Cornwallis, 76. an intereſting, 82, of the Marquis of Ormond, 90. of a ſporting parſon, 91. relative to card-playing on Sundays, 101. of Prince Eugene and the Earl of Oxford, 115. of the Duke of Marlborough, ibid. of a gallant Algerine, 169. of conjugal affection, 172. of a famous actreſs, 194. of an eminent phyſician, 204. of liberality of conduct in religious matters, 234. reſpecting the ſale of indulgences, 315. of filial affection, 349. of M. Mirabeau, 362, 444. of a firſt-rate artiſt, not generally known, 482. of a frail fair one, 514.
Anecdotes. Original ones of artiſts, 86. of the late George Selwyn, Eſq. 138. of the late Mr. George Groſs, 165. of Jack Ogle, 203. of the late Mr. John Keyſe Sherwin, engraver to the King and the Prince of Wales, 314.
Animal magnetiſm, 99.

B.

Bank of England, on its origin and utility, 87.
Bank of Holland, account of the, 88.
Becket, Thomas a, narrative of his death, and character, by the Rev. Joſeph Berrington, a Roman Catholic clergyman, 189.
Blind curate, the, 84.
Boothby, Sir Brooke, extracts from his letter to Mr. Burke, 177, 285, 301, 321.
Botany Bay, copy of a letter from Mr. White, the ſurgeon-general there, 41.
Burke, Mr. his animated deſcription of the Queen of France, 43. copy of the addreſs from the reſident graduates in the Univerſity of Oxford to Mr. Burke, together with his anſwer, 163. account of Mr. Burke's letter to the National Aſſembly, 586.

C.

Camden, Earl, character and anecdotes of, 63.

Charades,

Charades, 45, 141, 173, 197, 245, 269, 437, 565, 589, 613. Anſwers to, 20, 44, 93, 116, 195, 220, 268, 364, 388, 412, 436, 515, 540, 564.
Clergy, reaſons for amending the ſtatute of the 28th of Henry VII. cap. 11, reſpecting the, 14. letter to the beneficed clergy of the dioceſe of Briſtol, 99.
Coal, hiſtorical account of the ſeveral attempts formerly made to find it in the environs of Sherborne, interſperſed with remarks upon the imperfection and inefficacy of thoſe attempts, by the late Rev. Wm. Sharpe, vicar of Longburton, Dorſet, 570.
Cooper, Lucy, copy of a letter from the once celebrated, to Tate Wilkinſon, Eſq. 115.

D.

Death, on, by Mr. Logan, 170.
D'Eon, memoirs of the life of M. le Chevalier, 558.
Denmark, ſketch of the private life of the Prince Royal of, 538.
Dodd, Dr. correſpondence between him and Dr. Johnſon, 609.

E.

Enigmas, 93, 117, 141, 197, 221, 293, 317, 365, 388, 413, 516, 541, 565, 636. Anſwers to, 21, 175, 245, 291, 292, 363, 435, 436, 460, 483, 515, 587, 588, 613, 634, 635.
European politics, general review of the ſtate of, 145, 469.

F.

Fidget, Florio, hiſtory of her misfortunes, 36.
F—, the affecting hiſtory of Monſieur and Madame du, 305, 325, 345, 372, 393.
Francklin, Mr. extracts from his obſervations made in a tour from Bengal to Perſia, in 1786, and 1787, 379, 399, 421, 469, 512, 549, 631.
French and the Brabanters, political obſervations relative to their ſtate, 27.
Fruit-trees in bloſſom, method of preſerving them from the effects of froſt, 377.

G.

George III. extract from a ſketch of his reign from 1780 to 1790, 382.

H.

Hair-dreſſer, humourous complaint of a French one, who was led into a variety of misfortunes in conſequence of his depending on the explanation of words given in the Dictionary of Dr. Samuel Johnſon, 73.
Harriott, Mr. John, account of the damages he ſuſtained at Rochford, Eſſex, by the high tide on the 2d of February, 1791, on the land he had incloſed from the ſea, and as a premium for which he received a gold medal from the Society in London for the encouragement of arts, 369.
Hermit of Snowdon, or memoirs of Albert and Lavinia, 431, 445, 474, 507, 527, 555, 579, 617.
Herring, ſhort account of the, by Mr. Smellie, 19.
Huguetan, Peter, lord of Vryhouven, particulars of, 608.
Hydrophobia cured by vinegar, 563.

I.

Ireland, on the population of, 167.

J.

Jamaica, a description of the dreadful hurricane there, in 1780, by Mr. Beckford, 330.

K.

King of France, copy of an important paper of instructions sent by him to his Ambassadors at the different courts of Europe, 452.

Knowledge, the history of, learning, and taste, in Great-Britain, during the reign of Queen Elizabeth, part the first, 11.

L.

Lead, poison of, Dr. Fothergill's cautions relative to the, 409.

Lost son, the, an affecting history, by Mrs. Charlotte Lennox, 133, 158, 181, 205, 225, 254.

Love, on, 195.

Lying, observations on, by Mrs. Macaulay Graham, 219.

M.

Machines, on the use of them in manufactures, by Dr. Wendeborne, 357.

Marriages, observations on the validity of forcible, improvident, and clandestine, 417.

Matrimonial happiness, rules and maxims for promoting, 201.

Matthews, General, genuine and circumstantial account of his death, 593.

Mirza, a vision of, 281.

N.

Naples, story of the Queen of, 538.

National affairs, 600.

Neatness in dress, on attention to, 194.

O.

Orthography, curious specimen of, 539.

P.

Paine's Rights of Man, extracts from, 454, 503, 533. character of that pamphlet by the Analytical Reviewers, 481.

Parades, Robert Count de, a French spy, extracts from his secret memoirs, which supply some important facts for the history of the last war, and relate his transactions as a spy in England, with the real causes of the failure of the ever memorable expedition against Plymouth, in 1779, 128, 153, 185, 215, 235, 277, 297, 336, 405, 426, 431, 441, 465, 499, 521.

Peter, Sir John, account of a curious circumstance that took place between him and the magistrates of Ostend, 569.

Philanthropy, a noble instance of, 611.

Philips, Governor, extracts from his letter to Lord Sydney, relative to the settlement at Botany Bay, 288, 310, 350.

Political Reflections, 359.

Priestley, Dr. his letter to Mr. Burke, on the prospect of a general enlargement of liberty, opened by the revolution in France, 208.

Protestants and Papists compared, 57.

Protestant refugees, restitution of their property, by a decree of the National Assembly of France, 58.

Q.

Quakers, their yearly epistle, 583.

Query answered, 292.

Questions, 92, 140, 196, 220, 269, 340, 439, 483, 540, 635. Answers to, 192, 67, 116, 172, 244, 291, 316, 363, 411, 460, 515, 563, 612.

R.

Rebusses, 220, 245, 292, 364, 412, 461, 516, 540, 590, 613, 635.

Answers

Anſwers to, 20, 21, 44, 45, 67, 92, 140, 196, 268, 292, 316, 340, 387, 539, 564, 612.
Reflections, 58, 91.
Revolutions de Paris, extracts from the, in which is given an exact recital of what paſſed in that capital, and particularly at the taking of the Baſtile, from July 11 to July 23, 1789, 545, 595, 623.
Revolution in France, remarks on, by Capell Lofft, Eſq. 371.
Ruling paſſion, remarkable inſtances of its prevalence in the laſt moments of human life, 354.

S.

Sheep, experiment reſpecting them recommended to farmers, by Sir John Sinclair, Bart. 313.
Silveſter, John, Eſq. Common-Serjeant of the city of London, his addreſs to the capital convicts at the Old Bailey, previous to his paſſing ſentence on them, on Wedneſday Jan. 19, 1791, being the cloſe of the ſeſſions, 97.
Singularity, on perſonal, 232.
Slave-trade, reflections on the abolition of the, 169.
Society, the miſeries of, a true ſtory, 263.
Sunday ſchools, on, 121.
Swearing in converſation, a ſermon in praiſe of, by Mrs. Collier, 240, 249.

T.

Thurlow, Lord, character and anecdotes of, 53.
Tippoo Saib, ſhort account of his dominions, 25.
Tontine, origin of the word, 553.
Tooke, John Horne, Eſq. his petition to the Houſe of Commons of England, 49.
Towers, Dr. extract from his Thoughts on the Commencement of a new Parliament, with ſome remarks on Mr. Burke's pamphlet on the revolution in France, 1.
Trapp, ſingular ſtory of la, 362.
Trees, Mr. Forſyth's directions for making a compoſition for curing diſeaſes, defects, and injuries in all kinds of fruit and foreſt trees, and the method of preparing the trees, and laying on the compoſition, 610.

V.

Verſes. An occaſional prologue ſpoken to the tragedy of Julius Cæſar, which was performed by the young gentlemen of Mr. Weatherdon's boarding-ſchool, in Newton-Abbot, on Friday, December 3, 1790, 22. to D.Y. ſecond brother of a genteel family, reſident in London, theſe lines, written from a principle of gratitude, are humbly addreſſed, occaſioned by his viewing my left arm with a tear of pity, which was at that time ſadly hurt, 24. on printing, by G. D. of Plymouth, 46. on winter, ibid. on Thomſon, the author of the Seaſons, 48. ode for the new year, 1791, by L. H. Halloran, of Alphington Academy, 68. to a dove, by Zephyrus, 70. ode for the new year, 1791, by Henry James Pye, Eſq. Poet-Laureat, 71. to the memory of Laura, an amiable young lady, and an only daughter, 72. prologue to the new comedy of Better late than Never, written by the Duke of Leeds, 94. epilogue to ditto, 95. an evening walk in Werrington Park, near Launceſton, the beautiful ſeat of the Duke of Northumberland, 118. on ſincerity, by William Sharp, jun. of Newport, in the Iſle of Wight, 120. elegy occaſioned by by the death of an acquaintance, who had been married but a ſhort time, 142. in retirement, 143. a tribute to the memory of Mr. Thomas Underwood, late butler at Cumberwell-houſe, near Bradford, in Wilts, the ſeat of the Rev. Dr. Taunton, who loſt his life to ſave two of his fellow ſervants from the fire there, on the 8th of December, 1790, leaving two children, and a wife with child, ibid. the pedagogue in love, 144. ſong of a ſpirit, 174. ſonnet to Urania, by J. Reynolds, Falmouth, 175. on the word laſt, by a lady, 176. an exerciſe delivered to the maſter of Tiverton ſchool, 198. an occaſional prologue, ſpoken to the tragedy of Hamlet, which was performed by the young gentlemen belonging to Mr. Weatherdon's boarding-ſchool, in Newton Abbot, on Tueſday, December 1, 1789, 199. the doctor and his patient, a tale, 200. on the ſafe arrival of a friend after a narrow eſcape from a moſt dangerous ſtorm at ſea, 223. lines intended to have been preſented to a gentleman with an artificial ſnake, on his paſſing through the town where the lady then reſided, but which were too late, by Eliza H——, 223. to a friend on his wife's birth-day, by Edlyne, 224. on a ſhooting party who were caught in a thunder-ſtorm, 246. on faſhion, 248. prologue to the School for Arrogance, ſpoken by Mr. Bernard, in the character of a news-hawker, 270. de willis Anglicanis, by Monos, 271. tranſlation of the 10th ode of the 2d book of Horace, by a youth, formerly of the Rev. R. Lyne's ſchool, Liſkeard, 295. congratulatory lines to my much-eſteemed friend, E. L. on the joyful occaſion of his receiving an appointment in a certain department under government, by Amicus, 295. verſes occaſioned by Miſs Helen Maria Williams's poem on the word laſt, inſerted in the Weekly Entertainer for February 14, by J. K. C. 296. the Preſbyterian parſon's ſoliloquy; or a parody of Hamlet's celebrated ſoliloquy, by the late Rev. Samuel Badcock, of Southmolton, 318. a ſoliloquy in praiſe of potatoes, by Dermot O'Murrough, 319. the winter morning, a ſonnet, 320. lines engraved on the tomb ſtone of Mrs. Eſther Jacobſon, in the church-yard of St. Helier, Jerſey, ibid. Britiſh honour, a poem, occaſioned by a victory obtained in the Bay of Cadiz, by Captain Harman, in an Engliſh ſhip of war, over a Dutch Captain who challenged him. Tranſlated from the Muſæ Anglicanæ, 341. epitaph on a violent ſcold, 344. lines written on the recovery of the Earl of Bute from the effects of a dangerous fall from a cliff at his ſeat at Higher Cliff, in Hampſhire, written by Miſs Young, the accompliſhed daughter of the late Sir William Young, Bart. 366. an eulogium on poeſy, by Mr. J. D'Iſraeli, 367. on the death of N. Yeeles, Eſq. of Blagdon, Somerſet, 368. the ſuperannuated horſe to his maſter, who had ſentenced him to die at the end of the ſummer, on account of his being unable, from extreme old age, to live through the winter, 390. a parent's lamentation for the death of an only and promiſing child, by J. Bulgin, of Shepton Mallet, 391. morning reflections, by W. Cory, of Cranborne, 392. the

392. the tear, written by the late Queen of Denmark, 414. Bon Ton, by Pindar Paul, Eſq. 415. to hoſpitality, 416. epigram, ibid. epilogue to the new play called Wild Oats, or the Strolling Gentlemen, by G. Colman, jun. Eſq. 438. the humble petition of all the dogs and puppies of Great Britain to the Houſe of Commons, 439. an old author's deſcription of a bluſh, 440. animal magnetiſm, 462, 484. paſtoral epitaph, 464. irregular elegiac ſtanzas on the death of Miſs Channing, 487. April. Humbly inſcribed to a young lady of the author's acquaintance, by Amator, 518. verſes written to a friend on a ſevere illneſs ſhe had ſuffered in the winter, of which ſhe recovered in the ſpring, 519. the Royal Academy dinner, by Peter Pindar, ibid. Peter Pindar's humourous account of a wig, 520. verſes on patience, by Recluſa, of Wincanton, 542. a morning proſpect, by C. Lobb, 544. a Briton's complaint, occaſioned by a late deciſion againſt the abolition of the ſlave-trade, by a friend to humanity, 566. the horſe-race, by H. J. Pye, Eſq. 567. ſonnet by Silon, 568. verſes preſented by a young gentleman to a lady, written and ſet to muſic, by Peter Pindar, Eſq. 590. ſtanzas, written in a ſummer's evening, near Wookey Hole, by J. K. Coles, 591. a ſonnet, by Amator, 592. ode for his Majeſty's birth-day, by H. J. Pye, Eſq. poet-laureat, 614. lines on Miſs Channing, by S. of H—e, 615. a ſong, by Miſs H. M. Williams, 616. tranſlation of Ovid's Creation of the World, Met. b. I. by a youth, formerly of the Rev. R. Lyne's ſchool, Liſkeard, 637. inſcription for a library in a ſummer-houſe, 639.

W.

Wendeborne, Dr. his ſentiments reſpecting ſuicide, 166.
Weſley, the Rev. John, his will, 497.
Widow and her family, hiſtory of a, 5.

W

A

R

A

C U